Belgian Envoy to Speak at a Tapestry Display

Exhibition and Reception in Interest of Reestablishing Belgian Art Industry.

Baron de Cartier de Marchienne, Belgian Ambassador to the United States, will be present at a reception in the American Art Galleries at 5 o'clock next Sunday, and will speak on "Ancient and Modern Tapestry and Their Influence on Art and Industry." Mr. George Leland Hunter also will speak.

At the same time there will be an exhibition of examples of superb modern tapestries woven under romantic circumstances by Mlle. Dubois, in whose works the King and Queen of the Belgians are especially so interested.

It is Mlle. Dubois's desire to sell the tapestry in order to reestablish the school of tapestry making in Brussels. She thought that the reception and exhibition would further cement the friendly relations of the two countries and do much toward reviving one of the greatest art industries of Belgium and stimulate interest in the industry here.
